Time is money

- Each commit goes through complete build process
- Your client knows what you're doing

Time is money

- Each commit goes through complete build process
- Your client knows what you're doing
- You can resume development after development freeze (after major tool and library updates)